

MARKET AND COOKING ACTIVITY

Join us in a journey for the freshest produce from Santiago's lively La Vega market, and cook a selection of Chilean favorites

Description

In this activity we visit Santiago's main produce and fish markets: La Vega Central and Mercado Central, to buy fresh ingredients for a fresh and tasty meal. Accompany your guide as we select the best products from our favorite vendors, or caseros. It's also an opportunity to explore the variety of produce, products and culture at the market.

Next we will head away from Santiago Centro to a private home to prepare the meal. Here we will prepare a simple but delicious Chilean meal using the fresh products we just selected.

We will prepare dishes and drinks that are easy for our guests to replicate at home and that are perfect for sharing with friends and family. After all nothing is better following a trip than organizing a social gathering to share the foods, flavors and stories acquired during a visit to a new country.

These include fresh and filling sopaipillas, easy to prepare but hard to forget ceviche, the popular table salsa pebre served in Chile and of course pisco sours. Rather than a formal cooking class with technical instruction, this is a collaborative effort to prepare a fresh meal and talk food and culture.

The dishes will be prepared with a culinary host, guide, journalist and self-taught cook, who over 13 years has been traveling Chile and its neighbors and designed a special version of each preparation as well as stories behind the ingredients which makes each one special.

Each participant will also receive the recipes of what we prepared that day. Additional options are available for all diets and preferences. Just ask.
